

Good practice examples

CPD satisfaction

Title:

Blog entry: Why CPD is key to teacher satisfaction and retention

Purpose:

The blog entry informs teacher trainers about the impact of effective CPD on teacher satisfaction. It suggests the adoption of innovative practices as well as the creation of supportive learning environments. By understanding these concepts, teacher trainers can better design and implement CPD programs that meet the needs of teachers.

Short description:

In his blog entry, Dr. Marcin Lewandowski, an experienced manager, tutor, teacher trainer and researcher emphasizes the critical role of CPD in enhancing teacher satisfaction. He highlights that effective CPD not only keeps teachers updated with current practices, but also contributes significantly to job satisfaction.

Link:

<https://www.aoc.co.uk/news-campaigns-parliament/news-views/aoc-blogs/why-cpd-is-key-to-teacher-satisfaction-and-retention?utm>

FOOTT PRINTTS factors:

- 2.1 CPD is necessary for professional advancement
- 2.2 Content meets the needs of educators
- 2.3 Participation improves professional practice
- X 2.4 Overall job satisfaction is high

Other factors: